Legal disclaimer

DNS Belgium confirms that the details stated above correspond with those in our internal databases for the management of domain names and that the party identified herein may be considered as the registrant of the domain name stated in the document at the time this document was drawn up. The confirmation above only applies insofar as no prior modifications have been made to the DNS Belgium internal database in relation to the aforementioned domain name. If any such modifications have been made (e.g. as the result of the domain name being transferred) this may possibly have the effect of a change of the registrant of the domain name and a new document will have to be produced incorporating the modifications made. The document issued in no way provides proof that the registrant identified has always been the holder of the aforementioned domain name in the past or since the original registration.

By issuing this document, DNS Belgium gives no guarantee or definitive legal answer as to the validity and/or legitimacy of the rights or claims vis-à-vis the registrant or any third party in relation to the domain name stated in the document. The assessment of any such rights or claims comes under the sole powers of the courts of law and/or bodies for the alternative settlement of disputes. The document issued is in no way valid as title of ownership of the domain name stated.
